

ONLINE GOV360E: International Political Economy (37520/37524)

Class time: T/Th 12:30-2:00 (Fall 2020)

Professor: Dr. Rachel Wellhausen

(Canvas message preferred; email: rwellhausen@utexas.edu)

TA: Will (Wenhui) Yang

(Canvas message preferred; email: wenhuiyang@utexas.edu)

Course Description:

The purpose of this course is to provide you with an overview of the study of international political economy. The course's primary focus will be on the role of politics and government decision-making in international economic relations. Thus, while we will cover some topics familiar in the discipline of economics, this is wholly a political science (government) course. That said, students should be willing to engage with some basic relationships in macroeconomics – that government officials deal with on a daily basis. We will also read cutting edge qualitative (prose-based) and quantitative (statistics-based) research. Students should be open to learning to read engage with statistical analyses.

We will examine several topics central to IPE, including (1) the politics around international trade; (2) the politics around the international monetary system, including financial crisis; (3) and the politics of foreign investment by multinational corporations. We will draw on examples from the United States as well as developed and developing countries around the world. We will regularly address current events that are inextricably linked with our course content. We will also examine historical material that provides context and background necessary to understand today's international political economy – why it doesn't "have to" operate like it does, and how it has operated before.

Communication:

We ask you to pay extra attention to how you communicate with the professor and the TA, so that we can run the course smoothly and both utilize our comparative advantages. Specifically: contact the TA regarding course administration. Do not send a message to the professor only. When in doubt, contact us both in the same message.

Our office hours:

TA Zoom office hours – drop-in (no appointment necessary):

TBD

Why should you come to the TA's office hours? Having a conversation in office hours is always worth your time, and it is nearly always better than engaging in a typed back-and-forth. The TA may ask you to come to office hours in response to a written question.

Dr. Wellhausen Zoom office hours – by appointment:

T: 10:30-11:30 (11:00; 11:15; 11:30; 11:45) and 2:30-3:30 (2:30; 2:45; 3:00; 3:15)

Th: 2:30-3:30 (2:30, 2:45; 3:00; 3:15)

To schedule an appointment, send a Canvas message that suggests (at least) 2 different meeting slots. Standard appointments are 15 min; please feel free to request more. If you absolutely cannot meet in any of these slots, please offer (at least) 2 other times on Tuesday/Thursday. Dr. Wellhausen will respond, confirm your slot, give you the Zoom meeting room link, and expect you in the Zoom “waiting room” at the appropriate time.

Why should you make an appointment to come to the professor’s office hours? Please come and ask about: current events, IPE in general, extensions of class content, academia, research opportunities, career brainstorming, graduate school, etc. Whenever possible, the professor very much appreciates having conversations with you rather than engaging in typed exchanges.

Detail: Quizzes

Most class weeks are accompanied by a Canvas quiz directly tied to the reading materials for the week. You will have up to 15 minutes to complete the quiz from the moment of accessing it. You will receive your score on each quiz and information on incorrect answers immediately after submitting it. We expect you not to cheat by sharing questions or answers with other students who have not yet taken the quiz. Cheating is not ethical, not in your or your colleagues’ best interests in terms of learning, and frankly not worth your time.

Each student’s lowest quiz score will be dropped. This adjustment is intended to compensate for the inevitable conflicts that students face and mistakes that we all make. Given that you have the schedule now, and your lowest score will be dropped, and that you have extended time to complete the quiz, we will not accept late quizzes except in very extreme circumstances.

Detail: Exams

The course is arranged around three Modules. There will be an exam following each Module that covers the material only from that Module – including readings, lectures, and other course content. There is no comprehensive final exam. You should expect to be tested on your understanding of concepts and your ability to critically examine and apply those concepts. Exams will likely consist of a series of short answer questions; however, the exact format is at our discretion. We will provide more details on the format in advance of each exam.

All exams will be conducted online over Canvas. Exams are open-note, but not “open-person” – that is, you must complete the exam on your own and are not allowed to confer with any other person. The length of the exams, and the standards for the exams, are exactly the same as they would be for an in-person course. That is, although you have an extended window in which to complete the exam, a fully prepared student should be able to successfully complete the exam in 1.5 hours (as if you were sitting in the classroom doing it in a bluebook). Given that you have the schedule now, and each exam overlaps with our assigned class time and thus could be completed as if you were sitting in class, we will not accept late exams or make alternative arrangements except in extreme circumstances. If you see a possible issue arising, contact the TA as soon as is reasonably possible so we can address the issue together.

Extra Credit opportunity: Canvas Discussion board

There will be a designated Canvas discussion board thread for Module of the course, as well as an overall discussion board. You can earn extra credit for active participation on the discussion boards. What is active participation? Overall, active participation means that you are making substantive contributions. This includes both starting conversations and engaging with your colleagues’ posts to further conversations. For example, you can start or engage in an ongoing conversation by providing a link to an interesting article. For this contribution to be active participation, you would need to write about the content of the link, raise questions about it, put it in context, etc. Active participation also means participating in discussions throughout the semester, in most weeks of the course.¹

You and your colleagues will start and drive conversations on the discussion boards. The professor and TA will weigh in occasionally (particularly when substantive questions about course materials are raised), but we will not provide prompts. Part of the pedagogical reason for this is for you to start “seeing” IPE yourself – in the news, in connections across our course content, in connections to other courses you have taken, etc.

The amount of extra credit you earn will be evaluated holistically by the professor and TA at the conclusion of the course. The maximum extra credit awarded will be equivalent to a 3% upward adjustment on your overall course grade.

Other Important Policies – Please Review:

¹ You will not earn a substantial amount of extra credit for limited participation in the last days of the course.

Dealing with Extreme Circumstances: Our bottom line is this: Please loop the professor and TA in if you are facing extreme circumstances that interfere with your ability to be successful in the course, as soon as is reasonably possible. Note that we have already built flexibility into the course -- with padded deadlines, adjusted assignments, etc. -- to give you the best possible baseline ability to meet the course requirements. In general, we ask for everyone's cooperation in adhering to the deadlines and requirements of this (large) course. Absent extreme circumstances that you have communicated to us in a timely way, you should not expect (or ask for) special treatment, especially at the end of the semester.

Academic Integrity: A fundamental principle for any educational institution, academic integrity (Links to an external site.) is highly valued and seriously regarded at The University of Texas at Austin. More specifically, you and other students are expected to maintain absolute integrity and a high standard of individual honor in scholastic work undertaken at the University. This is a very basic expectation that is further reinforced by the University's Honor Code. At a minimum, you should complete any assignments, exams, and other scholastic endeavors with the utmost honesty, which requires you to:

- acknowledge the contributions of other sources to your scholastic efforts;
- complete your assignments independently unless expressly authorized to seek or obtain assistance in preparing them;
- follow instructions for assignments and exams, and observe the standards of your academic discipline; and
- avoid engaging in any form of academic dishonesty on behalf of yourself or another student.

Maintaining Your Academic Integrity in Online Learning (Links to an external site.)
UT's Standards of Conduct

Course specific policies: In our course, all violations of university academic conduct guidelines, including plagiarism, will be referred to the Dean of Students and will result in a zero on the assignment or exam in question. Plagiarism is the use of others' ideas or work without credit and/or presenting derivative work as one's own. This includes, but is not limited to, cutting and pasting from someone else's work or an internet source, failing to identify exact quotes, failing to cite a source for information that is only available from that source, failing to cite a source for an idea or argument you borrowed from that source, and turning in work that is not your own. When in doubt, cite.

Disability Accommodations: Students with disabilities may request appropriate academic accommodations from the Division of Diversity and Community Engagement, Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD: ddce.utexas.edu/disability; 512-471-6259). Students registered with SSD are required to follow the SSD procedures, which include providing accommodation requirements to the professor (usually in a letter) and then meeting with the professor in office hours to discuss and commit to the approach that will be taken in the course. The professor asks that students registered with SSD be proactive: please raise issues with the professor immediately should we make a mistake in providing accommodations. Students are encouraged to register with SSD and notify the professor as soon as possible. The professor does not make SSD accommodations retroactively. For more detail, see:

- Student Rights and Responsibilities \(Links to an external site.\)
- Using Accommodations at UT \(Links to an external site.\)
- How to register with SSD

University Health Resources for Students:

- Contact University Health Services \(Links to an external site.\) if you feel physically unwell.
- Contact the Counseling and Mental Health Center \(Links to an external site.\) if you need counseling or psychiatric services.
- Visit the Staying Well While Staying Home \(Links to an external site.\) page for tips and things to consider as you take care of yourself and others during this time.

Student Emergency: Any student facing severe difficulties during the semester should take advantage of Student Emergency Services, which helps to coordinate between the student and the student's professors. (SES: deanofstudents.utexas.edu/emergency; 512-471-5017; 24/7 Behavior Concerns Advice Line [BCAL]: 512-232-5050) Once a student meets with SES, SES will contact the student's professors on the student's behalf. Thus, students do not need to provide explanations or doctor's notes, etc. to individual professors. Professors rely on SES as an intermediary, because we are not trained to provide students with appropriate services nor evaluate what services would be most useful. There are many staff members at SES – and throughout UT Austin – whose training and focus are exactly in these areas. Thus, students getting in touch with us directly about severe difficulties will be referred to SES. That said, you are welcome to lean on us when seeking motivation in contacting SES (whether in office hours or via email). We are happy to talk, to the extent our positions allow us; and we can also connect students to available services. However, note that SES involvement puts the professor under no obligation to provide special accommodations for a student. Thus, we will provide special accommodations for students using SES on a case-by-case basis.

In-person Safety: In order to create a safe class environment, students must engage in daily symptom screening and must wear a cloth face covering properly (over the nose and mouth) in class and in all campus buildings at all times. Each class day in which on campus activities occur, students must upload certification from the symptom tracking app that they completed their symptom screening for that day to Canvas. Students should not upload the results of that screening, just the certificate that they completed it. If the symptom tracking app recommends that the student isolate rather than coming to class, then students must not return to class until cleared by a medical professional. It is critical for the health and safety of everyone on campus that students showing symptoms of COVID-19 avoid attending class in person.

If a student is not wearing a cloth face covering properly in the classroom (or any UT building), that student must leave the classroom (and building). If the student refuses to wear a cloth face covering, class will be dismissed for the remainder of the period, and the student will be subject to disciplinary action as set forth in the university's Institutional Rules/General Conduct 11-404(a)(3). Students who have a condition that precludes the wearing of a cloth face covering should follow the procedures for obtaining an accommodation \(Links to an external site.\) working with Services for Students with Disabilities. Upon receiving an accommodation from SSD, students should also notify the professor that they have an exception to the face covering rule.

Title IX Reporting: UT Austin is committed to fostering a learning and working environment free from discrimination in all its forms. Faculty members and certain staff members (TAs) are considered “Responsible Employees” or “Mandatory Reporters,” which means that they are required to report violations of Title IX to the Title IX Coordinator. For more information about reporting options and resources, visit titleix.utexas.edu (Links to an external site.) or contact the Title IX Office at titleix@austin.utexas.edu.

Course Drop Policy: At the beginning of each semester, you can add and drop classes without penalty. Check the academic calendar (Links to an external site.) for specific dates. Refer to the General Information Catalog for all official add/drop policies and procedures (Links to an external site.).

University-approved Function Conflicts: The student must inform the professor and TAs, with proper documentation, well before the deadline or scheduled exam time, so that the TAs can work on alternative arrangements.

Religious Holiday Conflicts: By UT Austin policy, the student must notify the professor of the pending absence at least fourteen days prior to the date of observance of a religious holy day. If the student must miss a class, an examination, a work assignment, or a project in order to observe a religious holy day, the student will be given an opportunity to complete the missed work within a reasonable time after the absence.

Emergency Evacuation Policy: Occupants of buildings at UT Austin are required to evacuate buildings when a fire alarm is activated. Alarm activation or announcement requires exiting and assembling outside. Familiarize yourself with all exit doors of each classroom and building you may occupy. Remember that the nearest exit door may not be the one you used when entering the building. Students requiring assistance in evacuation shall inform their instructor in writing during the first week of class. In the event of an evacuation, follow the instruction of faculty or class instructors. Do not re-enter a building unless given instructions by the following: Austin Fire Department, The University of Texas at Austin Police Department, or Fire Prevention Services office. Information regarding emergency evacuation routes and emergency procedures can be found at: utexas.edu/emergency.

Course Specifics: Overview

Organization overview:

Our standard format for this online course will be simultaneous Zoom lectures during our regularly scheduled time (12:30-1:45) on Tuesdays and Thursdays. All course content will be recorded and will be accessible via Canvas within a few hours after the class session.

We very much recommend that you take advantage of attending and participating in the simultaneous class sessions, if and when possible. Why? You will benefit from active learning, and you will also produce a public good for your colleagues by raising questions in real-time. That said, there are no attendance requirements. The expectation is that you will learn all the content of the course, and this can be accomplished completely asynchronously.

We will do our best to utilize the features on Canvas to set up a useful calendar for you. However, you and you alone are responsible for keeping track of deadlines for the course. In general: your compliance with deadlines will make the course run efficiently and maximize our ability to provide content rather than deal with administrative issues, although we will work with you if and when extreme circumstances interfere with your ability to be successful.

Required textbook:

Oatley, Thomas. 2019. International Political Economy: Interests and Institutions in the Global Economy. 6th edition. New York: Routledge.

Note that the 6th edition of this textbook is required – published in 2019 by Routledge (dark blue cover, picture of a port). Previous editions are unacceptable. You can rent or buy an electronic version online, or acquire a hard copy, as you prefer. All other readings and multi-media materials will be accessible via our Canvas page. Given fast-moving current events in IPE, we reserve the right to update the course during the semester. Refer to Canvas for the final set of materials for each week.
